Allegan GOP Names 31 to Committee

ALLEGAN — Thirty-one new members were elected to the executive committee of the Allegan County Republican organization at the county's annual fall GOP convention Wednesday night in the Griswold Memorial Building.

The 31 elected members will sit with an equal number of the party's primary election nominees — including those nominated for the new district supervisors' posts — in accordance with a recent Michigan attorney general's opinion which recognized supervisors' new status as county rather than township officers.

As a result, the county's Republican executive board will number 62, an increase of 42.

State Rep. Edson Root, of Bangor, was the principal speaker at the Wednesday night convention. Root predicted the state might be heading for fiscal troubles again with a Democrat controlled legislature and a Republican administration.

"The current budget is a tight one," he said "and we may not be in the black by next July 1."

"The governor's budget balances," Root indicated, "so it's up to the legislature not to upset it."

Root said the area lost an important House committee chairmanship when Republicans lost control of the legislature at the Nov. 5 elections. He said Rep. James Farnsworth of Plainwell was in line for chairmanship of the Powerful House Appropriations committee, a post which now will go to a Democrat.

The newly reorganized executive committee is scheduled to meet Friday, Dec. 6, in the Allegan County Building to elect new officers, it was announced by Chairman Charles Yeates, of Allegan.

Newly elected executive board members include Mrs. Eleanor Olsson and Earl Vander Ploeg, George Bouws and Mrs. Esther Halquist, all of Holland; Don Manchester and Henry Gorz, Saugatuck; Donald Barden, South Haven, and Richard Barnes, Fennville; Julius Tucker and Mrs. Julia Menkin, Hamilton; Wayne Scholten, Overisel, Jacob Van Polen, Salem; Frank Collins and Vern Brenner, Hopkins; Miss Helen Boyer, John Axe, Leo W. Hoffman and Miss Barbara Morley, all of Allegan; Lindsey Dugan and Miss Esther Porter, Otsego township; Forrest Bayha and Mrs. Edward Goodsell, Otsego city; Arnold Ross, Hopkins; Victor Fleser, Moline; Timus Vander Woode and Clayton Jackson, Wayland township; Ellis Wykstra, Martin; Irving Helme, Wayland, and Dean Anson, Rex Ten Eyck and Anthony Gless, all of Plainwell.

Firemen Chase Truck on Fire, Put Out Flames

BORCULO — Volunteer fire fighters of the Blendon-Olive township fire department don't even wait for fire alarms. At least they didn't Tuesday.

Fire Chief Henry Geerts and two firemen, Austin Weaver and Lefty Aalderink, were having coffee this morning at the fire station on 96th Ave. and saw a lumber truck passing with its right rear wheel ablaze.

Weaver jumped into his car to head off the truck and Geerts and Aalderink followed in the fire truck. Two miles east of Borculo the fire truck came upon the stopped truck and put out the fire. The lumber truck was driven by Peter Elenbaas of Hesperia, located about 60 miles north of Borculo.

Although the entire dual wheel was enveloped with flames, presumably caused by a locked brake, the tires did not blow and the driver continued on his way to Zeeland to deliver the load...but at reduced speed.

Both Drivers Hurt When Cars Collide

GRAND HAVEN — Two drivers were injured when their cars collided at Baldwin St. and Hollyhock in Georgetown township at 3:59 p.m. Monday, according to Ottawa county sheriff's deputies who are investigating.

Deane Maring, 48, of Jenison, complained of a sore neck and sought her own treatment. James Westveer, 18, of Grandville, the other driver, received head lacerations and was released from Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids after treatment.

Deputies said both cars were heading west on Baldwin St. and the Maring car had stopped to discard a passenger when it was struck in the rear by the car driven by Westveer.

MARRIED 60 YEARS—Judge Fred T. Miles and Mrs. Miles observed their 60th wedding anniversary Tuesday. Married on Thanksgiving Day 60 years ago, they celebrated the event with a family dinner Thursday at Holiday Inn. Judge Miles, now 91 years old, started his career as a school teacher, then served as Ottawa county prosecutor for 10 years and judge of the Ottawa-Allegan circuit for 18 years, retiring in the late 1940's. He still goes to his office almost every day. The Mileses live at 18 West 12th St. across from Centennial Park. The home is in the background of this picture.

New Liberal Coalition Sought by Julian Bond

The old liberal Democratic coalition formed by John Fitzgerald Kennedy in 1960 has begun to collapse and a new Democratic coalition must replace it, Julian Bond, 28-year-old Negro legislator of Georgia told an overflow crowd in Memorial Chapel at Hope College Tuesday night.

He spoke of the party eight years ago which took in all identifiable ethnic groups from Italians and Irish to Hungarian, sonalities. But he gave full credit to the Minnesota senator for his valiant stand on Vietnam. Robert Kennedy, McGovern and McCarthy all had been asked and only McCarthy responded, he said.

In an earlier press conference, Bond said he has no particular plans for the future but expects to remain in Atlanta because he likes it... a big city but not too big, a civilized place where 18-year-olds may vote and 21-year-olds hold state office.

He said he never had been threatened — a remarkable situation in view of the fact he won three elections and needed a U. S. Supreme Court order before he could be seated as legislator. He is now serving a second two-year term and Georgia's legislature now has 15 Negroes. Illinois also has 15, he said.

Julian Bond

Spanish, Indians, and Negroes, and said of the reduced party today only the black people are left with no place to go.

In calling for a new Democratic coalition, the youthful legislator did not offer a blueprint, but said leaders must organize large numbers of unorganized groups and must be careful about whom it excludes. It must be more than a confluence of people... it must be people who are concerned enough to build a force powerful enough to improve the situation, he said.

Soft spoken, articulate and with considerable humor, sometimes biting, the young legislator expressed concern over what he called the Snow White syndrome, a concept which promises all Negro problems will right themselves if people are just patient and wait for the prince on the white charger to come. "A prince just doesn't come like that these days," he said. He expressed concern the coming four years under the Nixon administration, feeling that Nixon is attempting to turn back a clock already ticking too slowly.

He expressed further concern over upcoming appointments to the Supreme Court (possibly five in coming years), appointment of a new attorney general, influence on budgets of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Health, Education and Welfare, and Housing and Urban Development, and other decisions during the 91st and 92nd Congresses.

"The black people will have to learn how to live with it or in spite of it," he said.

Bond did not limit his criticism to the president-elect but had sharp things to say about Spiro T. Agnew, Lyndon Johnson and Richard Daley. In his denunciation of President Johnson, Bond said more black children are attending segregated schools north of the Mason-Dixon line today than 14 years ago, comparing it with integrated fox holes 8,000 miles away in Vietnam.

Bond said he was not particularly concerned with Sen. Eugene McCarthy's role in the new Democratic coalition since he envisions groups rather than per-AUTOGRAPH PLEASE! — Dr. Christian Barnard (far right), the guest of Hope College and the Holland community this past weekend, signed hundreds of autographs for admirers during his two-day stay. Dr. Barnard is pictured after a Saturday luncheon in Phelps Hall on the Hope campus.

Barnard's Visit Thrills Holland

Dimnent Memorial Chapel on Hope College campus was jammed Saturday morning for a special convocation in which Dr. Christian Neethling Barnard of Cape Town, South Africa, the first surgeon to perform a successful human heart transplant, received an honorary Doctor of Science degree.

The overflow gathered in Winants' auditorium for closed circuit television and another 100 were turned away. Total attendance was listed at more than 1,600. Dr. Barnard's convocation address was broadcast over radio, and 23 Michigan stations have scheduled the talk at future dates.

His press conference preceding the convocation had 100 per cent response from news media making reservations. Tapes of the news conference were dispatched Saturday to 24 radio stations requesting it. A photograph of Dr. Barnard and Willard C. Wichers of the Netherlands Information Service was taken for the Netherlands wire service.

Following the convocation, more than 500 gathered for a luncheon honoring Dr. Barnard in Phelps Hall. Among the guests were pre-med students, selected high school students, local physicians, college faculty, college science students and many alumni.

The vibrant personality of the brilliant 45-year-old Cape Town surgeon had a great impact on press and public alike. Throughout his press conference and his convocation address ran a thread of humor and a touch of modesty, giving full credit to his team of co-workers in the heart transplant operation. His message mainly concerned motivation in the world today, the need to inform the public on medicine, and the awareness that ability, opportunity, imagination and luck are prime ingredients in any new achievement.

Dr. Barnard was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Donnelly for the weekend. He arrived in Holland Friday after 37 hours in the air from Cape Town. He left Grand Rapids airport at 6 p.m. Sunday for Chicago to spend two days at Loyola University and to assist them in kicking off a drive for a science building. He will leave Wednesday for Paris and then home. He will return to New York Dec. 7.

Aware of Dr. Barnard's association with the Dutch Reformed Church, Hope College President Calvin Vander Werf wrote early concerning a visit to Holland, Mich., preferably at commencement in 1969. Dr. Barnard expressed interest in this Dutch - American community but could not fit a June date into his schedule, and then worked in the earlier date.

A gracious personality, Dr. Barnard was particularly interested in the town of Holland, the college and its science program.

At the luncheon, Mayor Nelson Bosman presented engraved wooden shoes to Dr. Barnard and to Dr. James L. Pappen, famed neuro surgeon of Boston and a Hope alumnus, who had presented the degree to Dr. Barnard at the convocation. Dr. Pappen reminisced on his days at Hope College and the three years he spent playing baseball with the Baltimore Orioles before getting his medical degree. The facilities of Hope College were taxed Saturday. In addition to the Barnard convocation, there was a debate contest and a high school orchestra seminar, both scheduled well in advance.

Leslie Hellenthal Honored at Dinner

A Thanksgiving Day dinner was held Sunday at the Tony Hellenthal residence, 588 Azalea, in honor of their son Leslie, who is home from the service on a 30-day leave.

Hellenthal enlisted in the service in July, had eight weeks training at Fort Knox, and then went to Huchucha, Ariz., where he was graduated as a vehicle driver. He will be leaving on Dec. 8 for Fort Louis, Wash. and then expects to go to Germany.

of native woods of Alabama which hung in the main salon of the ship. It was placed there in 1910 for the maiden voyage of the new ship from Chicago to Grand Haven. The carved mural, a montage of various industrial and agricultural pursuits in Alabama, was presented by the governor of Alabama.

Presentation to the Netherlands Museum board was made Tuesday by Ervin J. Goebel, president - emeritus of the Georgian Bay Co., at a luncheon in Hotel Warm Friend. Goebel has been with the company 43 years, starting as assistant purser. Other articles are log books of the three liners, the S.S. South American, the S.S. North American and the S.S. Alabama; a solid silver sugar and creamer set, advertising literature and ship records and payroll books.

Goebel traced the history of the Georgian Bay Co. founded by R. C. Davis of the Goodrich Transit Co. The North American was built in 1912 and the S.S. South American in 1914. Liquidation of the line in the 1960's was due mainly to mounting federal restrictions. The South American was last used on trips between Detroit and the Canadian Expo and since has become a training ship for maritime officers. The North American sank in a storm off Cape Cod in 1966 and the Alabama has been scrapped.

Among the guests at the luncheon was Jan C. Van Den Berg, Netherlands consul-general of Chicago, who expressed appreciation for the gift to the museum and said it was with pride that he sees American industry link its past with the present for the people of the future. Guests were welcomed by Mayor Nelson Bosman.

31 Named To County Committee

GRAND HAVEN — Thirty-one persons were named to the Ottawa County Republican executive committee at a county convention Thursday night in the county building attended by some 200 persons.

The 31 will serve on a committee with 31 Republican office holders elected in the Nov. 5 election. This committee will include the 21 county supervisors elected in a clean Republican sweep plus the county office holders and the three elected to the state legislature from the county.

The slate of 31 nominees was presented by a nominating committee appointed by Charles R. Sligh Jr., who was elected convention chairman. Sligh was the convention choice, largely determined by the new conservative group which took over control of the Ottawa county Republican party following the Aug. 6 primary when they upset the Old Guard 2 to 1. He was nominated by Joel Ver Plank of Holland who headed the effort to elect conservatives rebelling over the moderate group which had headed the county Republican party for many years.

The new group was generous in victory. Resolutions were the briefest in many years at any convention and called for commending outgoing leaders for the "complete success" in electing Republicans at the Nov. 5 election. This included a rising vote for Joyce Hutton of Grand Haven who served as county chairman for four years. Vice Chairman Tom De Pree of Holland also was commended in the standing ovation.

The only other resolution expressed the "wish" of resolutions committee that Ver Plank of Holland be named county chairman by the new committee and Joyce Dip of Hudsonville, vice chairman. Officers, including a secretary-treasurer, are to be named by the committee within 20 days.

An effort headed by Mrs. Hutton and De Pree for an alternate slate of committee members received polite attention but the vote was overwhelmingly for the original list. The Hutton-De Pree list included several names appearing on the first list.

Thursday's convention lasted less than 1½ hours, a sharp contrast to the "donnybrook" Aug. 14 when a wrangle over parliamentary procedures and other differences stretched the meeting to 5½ hours, mostly over controversial resolutions on international issues, income tax, Supreme Court, etc.

GRANDSTANDING... Christian C.H.A.M.P.S.

By Vern Plagenhoef
The cry went out for help and the response was enormous.

Clare Pott, athletic director at Holland Christian High School, and the rest of the athletic department sent out the cry and it was a group called C.H.A.M.P.S., Christian High Athletic Membership Projects Supporter, that responded.

"We realized with this new building going up (Christian High School) we wouldn't be able to handle it (athletic financial situation) without some auxiliary aid," Pott stated.

So, at the instigation of the school's athletic board, C.H.A.M.P.S. was organized in March of 1967, with Bob De Nooyer serving as the first president.

These "eager people," as Pott labels them, in the year and one-half that they have been functioning have raised "close to $20,000."

This has been done through a series of projects which include chicken barbecues, radio auctions, calendar sales, membership drives and adventure film showing on Thanksgiving night.

The money C.H.A.M.P.S. has raised is "committed to equipment for high school purposes. This includes scoreboards, hurdles for track, physical education equipment, and tennis nets."

"The athletic fund is assuming construction out of proceeds which have built up."

vision screen, which when not in use as the monitor for the video-tape recorder functions like the television in your own home, a control box, the video tape and a television camera equipped with zoom lens, the device has many factors in its favor.

First of all it has the advantage over regular film, in that, the tape can be erased and used over an innumerable amount of times.

The video-tape recorder also is equipped with stop action which enables (in this case) coaches to point out, visually, flaws or advantages to their players.

Also, coach Art Tuls, Holland Christian basketball mentor, has the advantage, if he so desires, of commenting into a microphone at the same time the video-tape recorder is filming. When the tape is observed by the players, Tuls' remarks, made at the exact time the play was taking place, will accompany the video portion of the tape recorder.

Pott noted, "we are pretty much reconciled to using it at half-court, filming half the game offensively and half defensively."

"The amazing thing is getting a picture off that."

Indeed it is! The video-tape recorder itself is like a "simple" stereo tape recorder except that it is capable of transmitting a picture.

If the video-tape recorder is purchased by Holland Christian High School the C.H.A.M.P.S. can chalk up another worthwhile project.

In one and one-half years a 15-man board which represents all members of the organization, has lifted Christian into an expanded program of athletics.

As Pott says, "we can't thank them enough. Without their aid, the way our school is set up, we wouldn't be able to have these extensive facilities."

Keep up the good work CHAMPS.

Two Sirens Fall Short In Alert Test

Holland's alert siren system was tested Friday when sirens at five locations in the city were triggered from police headquarters at 11 a.m. Friday for a three minute period.

Police Chief Leslie Van Beveren said the purpose of the test was to determine if the sirens were functioning properly and if they were heard as far as East Saugatuck, while other phone calls from residents in the city revealed the sirens could not be heard well at all.

Crews from the Board of Public Works were investigating the two pieces of equipment that fell short in the network test. It is speculated the malfunctions may have been caused by animals or birds who are looking for winter dwellings at this time of the year.

BPW employees will make repairs to correct the malfunctions, Van Beveren said, and another test will be scheduled at a future date. At the last network test on April 12, all systems functioned properly.

Chief Van Beveren expressed appreciation to all citizens for their complete cooperations and thanked especially those who notified police on the performance of the sirens.

Police said they received only one phone call from a person who wanted to know what the sirens were for.

The driver, Larry Kooyers, 21, of 330 North River Ave., received bumps, bruises and lacerations for which he was x-rayed and released.

His passengers were Ronald Stegenga, 19, of 21½ West Central Ave., Zeeland, who had bumps and bruises; Dale Van Kampen, 21, of 191 West 20th St., who received minor lacerations, bumps and bruises; Walter Bosma, 22, of 145½ Elm St., Zeeland, who complained of back injuries, and Dale Barnaby, 18, of 295 West 20th St., who suffered bumps and bruises.

Phil Frank's Pen Works in Politics

Had the remotest possibilities of fourth, fifth or sixth-party (or whatever the number was!) presidential candidate become a "straight - laughing" reality, a former Holland resident would not doubt be a ranking administrative assistant to Pat Paulsen.

He is Phil Frank who designed posters and decorations for Paulsen's campaign on the STAG ticket — that's Straight Talking American Government party!

Besides the posters and decorations, Frank did political cartoons, Paulsen's newspaper advertisements and the art work for the book "Pat Paulsen for President."

Some of his work was also seen on the "Pat Paulsen for President" television special and the sweatshirts boasting Paulsen were also designed by Frank.

It was Frank's cartoons that were ballooned to 10 by 10-foot giants for the unique fund-raising testimonial dinners for Paulsen — the 98-cent plate dinner at Ontra Cafeteria in Los Angeles and the other one held at the lush automat in New York City.

Phil is married and he and his wife Marylou have a three-year-old son, Phillip Andrew.

Phil was borne into the Paulsen campaign after he did a poster for Paulsen's appearance in East Lansing last May. A month later, Paulsen asked Frank to get on the STAG party bandwagon and do some artwork for them.

Commenting on Paulsen's campaign, Frank said, "I think Paulsen took the campaign seriously to the point that he feels something should be done to the way politics are being run." He added Paulsen brought out the nation's problems by satirizing the political scene.

And what did Paulsen have to say about Frank? Well... during an interview on Oct. 30 with Frank, Paulsen in his inimitable way wryly retorted to the artist: "Actually, what we were trying to do Phil, we were trying to get with the kids and straighten them out, and you going around, drawing those things on the walls of the rest rooms; you can't do that... We're very excited about your work. Personally we don't care for you..."

Now that the national election is over, Frank is casting an eye to the future and may just go to California for talks with Krager/Smothers/Fritz in Beverly Hills (they produce the Smothers Brothers show) and who knows where his pen will strike again!

Knoll Family Continues Aid To Men in Dead Son's Group

One Holland family, saddened by the loss of a son and brother, is making life a little more pleasant for other servicemen in Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Knoll, 286 Home Ave., whose son Sgt. Robert E. Knoll, 20, was killed in hostile action in Vietnam on Sept. 27, have been sending packages to other men especially those in the long range reconnaissance patrols (LRRP).

To The Editor:

We are among the unfortunate parents who lost a son in the Vietnam War. Our son, Bob, was killed on Sept. 27. Since that time we have continued to send packages to other young men fighting in the long range reconnaissance patrol (LRRP). We know from our son's experiences that these men are fighting under absolutely the worst of conditions, and we know how much the mail and packages mean to them.

Many local residents, friends and relatives have contributed to our efforts with donations of time, money and food. We would like to share with Sentinel readers some of the warm expressions of gratitude sent by those receiving the packages. Possibly more people will be encouraged to remember our fighting men more often, especially at this holiday season.

Persons who would like more information on sending boxes to Vietnam, may contact us.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Knoll
286 Home Ave.

Sgt. Knoll was buried with military rites on Oct. 10. Memorials which were made in his name amounted to more than $500. The Knolls used this money to pack the LRRP boxes.

These packages contain socks, towels, canned foods (a meal-in-a-can) sweetened orange drink, V-8 juice, instant milk and black pepper.

Mrs. Knoll, relatives, friends, neighbors and anyone interested have been kept busy filling these packages and sending them to the patrols where the heavy action is.

Excerpts from several letters told of the actual battle and how Sgt. Knoll met his death as written by Spec 4 Jan, who told of the bravery of the platoon sergeant. He complimented the Knolls on bringing up a fine son and asking them to pray for peace.

Another letter from a Lieutenant Don told that he had distributed the LRRP packages to the men in a company according to Mrs. Knoll's instructions. Lt. Don was with Sgt. Knoll the day he was killed and told how devoted to duty, cheerful and confident Sgt. Knoll was.

A machine gunner in Sgt. Knoll's squad the day he died told of the bravery of the Holland soldier and how he was thankful for the letters and packages. He lives in Flint and after his discharge he plans to come to visit the Knolls.

"Your son, Bob, was one of the bravest men I've ever known," wrote Lieutenant Patrick. His squad was always "squared away" and their morale was very high. The packages were given to men close to Bob. It meant a great deal to us to see that one who has lost so much in this war wants to help those of us who must continue to fight."

More letters have been received by the Knolls and they continue to write letters and send packages.

Gerry Faces Inauguration, Wedding at the Same Time

WASHINGTON — Gerry Van Der Heuvel says she hasn't talked to Pat Nixon since being named the next first lady's press secretary but she did receive a congratulatory call from the woman she will replace in the White House.

Mrs. Van Der Heuvel, a native of Holland, Mich., and a widowed mother of three, said Friday that she and Mrs. Nixon will probably be the only women around having to face a wedding and an inauguration at the same time.

She was referring to the expected December wedding of Julie Nixon, 20, and David Eisenhower, grandson of former

Gerry Van Der Heuvel

President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The couple reportedly plan to wed in a lavish ceremony in New York.

"I've known Mrs. Nixon for a long time," Gerry said, speaking of her Washington days as a reporter for the New York Daily News and for Newhouse National News Service. But she said she had not spoken to Mrs. Nixon since accepting the job.

Liz Carpenter, a former colleague of Gerry's when both worked for United Press (now United Press International) in Philadelphia during World War II, quickly phoned her when she heard the news and offered to be "very helpful" during the transition from one administration to another, she said.

The petite, blue-eyed Mrs. Van Der Heuvel said she once considered joining the staff of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. She declined to say whether she was a Democrat or a Republican. She said she was not asked that during two days of interviews with Herbert Klein and other Nixon aides in New York before she was hired.

Albers Co. Featured In Magazine

The Marvin Albers Co. of Holland received national recognition recently in an article titled "Small Town Jobber" in the "Sanitary Maintenance" magazine, a journal of the sanitary supply industry.

The article describes how Marvin Albert started a confectionery supply company about 30 years ago and later expanded into custodial supplies. The company is housed in a new $75,000 building on a rail siding which enables prompt service to all customers.

In order to keep customers and maintenance personnel in the city and surrounding counties up to date on the latest products and methods in the sanitary industry, three seminars were scheduled this fall. One is devoted to the problems of church custodians and others for school personnel and for commercial and industrial maintenance employees. Speakers come from the Chicago area.

Albers places great emphasis on the importance of cleanliness in his own establishment and his air-conditioned display room is an excellent illustration of this philosophy, neat and uncluttered.

The company employs 12 persons in sales, office, warehouse and delivery positions. Albers' son-in-law, William Zonnebelt, heads a staff of four salesmen and also is the company's general manager. Office manager is George Plakke.

Two full time men and an additional summer aid are responsible for stocking merchandise in the 12,000 square foot warehouse. Products arrive at the company and are unloaded by means of a gravity conveyor system that takes products into the warehouse and to specific aisles for storage.

The funds are given by all the churches in the denomination, through the Deacons Fund which takes care of this particular project.

A BREATHING SPELL

The election has come and gone for some weeks now and it was a close one. The 70 million plus turn-out of voters was, on the whole, an encouraging one. The people have spoken and have accepted the result, which is as we would expect. It has almost invariably been so in our history. Even so, such acceptance is noteworthy as a happy and remarkable phenomenon in our political life.

Plans for the orderly transfer of power from one party administration to another are going on slowly. And have you noticed the comparative quiet, the lull in the political winds, and the sudden absence of bitter invective? Only a short while ago we were all being regaled by the raucous rantings of the political orators which are now mercifully stilled.

True, the political problems are still with us and solutions will need to be found for them. But for the time being at least, the country appears to be hoping for the best and to be enjoying a brief and much-needed breathing spell. It is a good feeling.

Orosco waived examination at his arraignment today and was bound over to Ottawa Circuit Court to appear Dec. 9. Bond was set at $7,500.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Dec. 1
Truly God, Truly Man
I John 4:14; II John 7-9
By C. P. Dame

This lesson teaches the doctrine that Jesus is man and God. We do not stress doctrines much in these days, for ethics are more popular. Because doctrines are ignored many people are easily influenced by ecumenicity and the agitation for church mergers.

I. We are called upon to test the teaching we hear. The word, "Beloved" which John used to address believers shows concern for their spiritual welfare. He told them not to "believe every spirit but to try the spirits whether they are of God." Why? Because "many false prophets are gone out into the world." He urged the believers to show discernment. Believers needed it then, they need it now.

Note the test John mentions. God's Spirit always honors the Son. People who "believe that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh" are true believers. They confess that Jesus is the Son of God who became man that man might become God's son again, but those who deny this are not of God, disbelieving in the pre-existence of Jesus and in His humanity.

John saw the danger of this teaching and said that it was prompted by the "spirit of anti-christ." Behind every prophet is a spirit. God's Spirit prompts true prophets, while the spirit of error prompts false prophets. Today false teachers are noisy, and some get a lot of attention and mislead some.

II. Believers are victors by God's grace. "Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them." The Lord God dwells in the hearts of believers and gives them power to resist the pressures from without.

John delights in contrasts. The false teachers have one kind of an audience, it is worldly in spirit, while those who are of God listen to those who speak for God. The two kinds of teachers have two kinds of hearers. Each audience listens to what it wishes to hear. "Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error," says John. There are two kinds of audiences today and they listen to two kinds of messages—and they differ much.

III. There are still many deceivers abroad today. "For many deceivers are entered into the world" so wrote John long ago and these words are as true as ever. The second portion of the lesson is from II John which was written to "the elect lady"—the church. John warned the church against teachers who did not believe that Jesus had become a man. "Look to yourselves" — so wrote John. Of course we ought to be concerned about our own spiritual life. Heretical ideas hurt one's Christian life. Shun ideas that hurt. In the last verse John mentions two groups, one does not abide in Christ's teaching, while the other one does. The former claimed to be advanced thinkers. John makes it plain that in order to keep in touch with God, it is essential to abide in the teaching of Christ.

The only way they will be able to get this is by enrolling in a 4-H tractor program. We are planning to have another meeting in December and will have all the materials available for leaders. William DeLong, C.P.A. and resident partner of Maihofer, Moore & DeLong of Holland, was the speaker at the November dinner meeting of the Holland chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants held Tuesday evening in the Festival Room of the Hotel Warm Friend.

Speaking on the topic, "Problem Areas of Income Tax Deductions," DeLong discussed depreciation and depreciation rates, travel and entertainment expenses, bad debts; and child support. He also explained the difference between repairs and capital expenditures and stressed that all expenses must be both ordinary and reasonable. A question and answer period followed.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Lois Kaushoek, Mrs. Gertrude Van Spyker, president, presided at the business meeting. A letter from the United Fund, thanking the members for their help in auditing the cash and pledges of the United Fund drive, was read.

Heart Transplant Surgeon Awarded Degree at Hope

"I'm concerned with the motivation of youth today," Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the first doctor to perform a successful heart transplant in history, said here Saturday.

The South African surgeon-researcher was in Holland to receive an honorary Doctor of Science degree at a special convocation at Hope College, presented by Dr. James Poppen, famed neuro surgeon of Boston, a 1926 Hope alumnus.

"So many youth in the world today are either not prepared or are unwilling to accept the responsibilities of today's civilization," Dr. Barnard said, "and adults are deeply disturbed over this revolt in a civilization which has offered so much."

His own motivation on the heart transplant was (1) it was necessary because millions of people were dying of heart disease, and (2) it could be done. That it was done in Cape-town, South Africa, was something of a surprise to the world since South African headlines generally were not happy headlines.

Dr. Barnard pursues a heavy schedule of work and speaking engagements in the belief that the world of medicine owes more to the people it treats and asks money. There is so much that must be done to educate the public, he said, pointing to the old days when prescriptions were written in Latin so people would not know what was in the medicine.

At home in Capetown (and that's where he plans to remain) Dr. Barnard is currently engaged in the research of animal organs, mainly baboons; also on drugs correcting rejection processes, and on transplant of other organs, mainly livers and pancreas. Such transplants have been done in the United States but are new to South Africa.

Dr. Barnard regards transplants as a palliative process rather than a curative procedure — relating to the belief that all transplants in time will be rejected. He sees no reason why second and third transplants cannot be done, and was optimistic that third transplants could function more effectively than the first.

In his research on animal organs, Dr. Barnard said liver transplants on pigs have proved highly successful and that no great drug treatment was necessary to ward off rejection. But skin transplants on pigs were rejected.

Believing that animal transplants are the next step, he spoke of procedures in injecting small doses of animal antigen to human patients in solving the rejection problems.

On the moral and ethical question of transplants, he feels that the question of burying organs which could be useful to other persons is as great a moral question as using them for transplants, again pointing to the need of education. Legally, a patient is dead when the doctor says he is dead, usually when the brain is dead. Dr. Barnard said he cannot conceive of a situation where a heart would be removed from a person who faces possible recovery. "That is as unlikely as being buried alive," he said.

The Dutch people in South Africa accepted the concept of heart transplants with no great concern as to the moral or ethical question. "The Dutch are a practical people and their attitude on heart transplants is based more on wisdom rather than tradition or emotion," he said.

As for his own health and his arthritis, Dr. Barnard says he is feeling fine and has not needed medication for some four months. He credits this to a busy schedule of 16-hour days.

At the convocation, Dr. Barnard was introduced by Dr. Calvin Vander Werf, president of Hope College. Greetings were given by Cynthia Newcomb from the students; Hugh De Pree, chairman of the Hope College board of trustees, for the college community, and Hugh W. Brenneman, executive director of the Michigan State Medical Society, from the medical profession.

City Election Scheduled February 17

Nominating petitions for persons seeking city offices in the Feb. 17 primary election must be filed by Jan. 6, 1969, City Clerk D. W. Schipper said today.

The terms of office of the mayor, one councilman-at-large, and councilmen of the first, third and fifth wards, will expire next spring.

Candidates running for mayor or councilman-at-large must have petitions signed by not less than 60 registered electors in the city, with not less than 10 from each ward in the city.

In the case of councilmen to be elected from first, third and fifth wards, such petitions must be signed by not less than 20 nor more than 40 registered electors of the ward from which the person seeks election.

If petitions are filed for no more than twice the number of candidates for any office, no primary election is held with respect to that office. Councilmen to be elected from the wards are nominated by electors in their respective wards.

Mayor and councilmen are nominated at large by all electors in the city. However, in the April election all officials are elected at large.

A candidate is eligible for elective office in the city if he has been a resident of the city for two years. A councilman elected from a ward must also have been a resident of that ward not less than 20 days prior to the nomination.

Petition forms are available at the city clerk's office.

Junior Welfare League Readies Playroom Setup

A five year dream by members of the Junior Welfare League of Holland will become a reality Dec. 2 with the opening of the playroom in the new pediatrics ward at Holland Hospital.

The playroom has been totally furnished with proceeds from the sale of League's cookbook "Eet Smakelijk."

Beginning Dec. 2, the playroom will be supervised by two League members acting as "play ladies" on a volunteer basis. Their hours will be from 10 a.m. through 12:30 p.m. each Monday through Friday throughout the year.

One "play lady" will supervise planned creative activity and the other will go from bed to bed to read and visit with children who are unable to go to the playroom. Mrs. T. H. Pauline will also assist in the playroom one hour every week as the "story lady."

Last Tuesday evening League members met in the Heritage

Room at the hospital and were given an orientation to the play program and pediatrics department by Miss Esther Lutz, director of nursing service and Miss Gloria Bjorklund, head pediatrics nurse of the hospital.

League hopes the new program will aid in helping to make the children feel as comfortable and "at home" as possible during their hospital stay.

The playroom contains many creative toys and games as well as various craft supplies. There is still need, however, for additional items. Individuals or groups who would like to contribute toys or funds to the playroom may contact Mrs. Jack Faber, coordinator of the project for the League.

The Jean Teens of Mrs. Bud Wybenga last week presented toys to the department. They used funds from candy sales and Jean Teen Fairs to raise the necessary amount to purchase the special toys.
